

Dear Parents

It was lovely to see the children in their various costumes for World Book Day yesterday: thank you parents for making this effort to support us.

We are looking forward to the Spring Revue on Tuesday 12th - please remember that we will finish at 2.30 so that the hall can be prepared for the evening concert, which begins at 7pm. The children can come in something bright and colourful for this occasion as it's informal. Doors will open at 6.34pm and we look forward to seeing you then.

On Wednesday we have two pupils taking the Associated Board exams in Wakefield and we wish them luck (although their preparations have been secure and dedicated). We have congratulated two pupils who have gained Grade 1 with Distinction and Grade 2 with Merit on Piano - proud of you!

Next Friday is the English Speaking Board exams for Juniors and it essential that they bring in their talk items on Thursday as we will set up the display boards then. Children in Lower Juniors must arrive for 8.45 please as we must make a prompt start in order to fit in all our candidates before lunchtime.

We will have some special Easter activities and events in the final week of term, so please watch this space - (and our Facebook page) to keep up to date.

Lunches next week are based on Week 3 of the set menus.

Finally, we welcome a new pupil in Year 3 on Monday: I am sure you will offer your usual warm welcome to the family as new members of our Queenswood community.

I wish you all a lovely weekend and to mums, grans and aunties out there (and all carers, mothers and others) - have a lovely day on Sunday!

Kind regards
Julie Tanner
